DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

This office action is in response to the Election, with traverse, of June 14, 2007. After further consideration of the claims and the Restriction requirement set forth by the previous examiner, the examiner has withdrawn the restriction requirement.

Claim Objections

Claim 7 is objected to because of the following informalities: The acronym "PTC" should be replaced with its actual meaning. Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(a) the invention was known or used by others in this country, or patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country, before the invention thereof by the applicant for a patent.

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1-3 and 10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(a) as being clearly anticipated by Sahoda et al (USPAP 2002/0022172).

Sahoda et al discloses in Figs. 1 and 17 an ejector pump used with a fuel cell, having a flow path unit (200) with a discharge (213) leading to an outlet, a nozzle body having a main fluid inlet port (207), a nozzle outlet (214) and a main fluid flow path communicating between the main fluid inlet and the nozzle outlet, the discharge from the nozzle being used to suck a sub-fluid through a port (208). There is a needle (221) which has a second sealing surface (227) for closing of the main fluid flow path which when closed maintains the needle away from the nozzle.

Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Vignerot (USPN 3,471,172).

Vignerot discloses in Fig. 2 an ejector pump having a flow path unit with a discharge (70) leading to an outlet, a nozzle body having a main fluid inlet port (91), a nozzle outlet (60) and a main fluid flow path (34,17) communicating between the main fluid inlet and the nozzle outlet, the discharge from the nozzle being used to suck a sub-fluid through a port (77). There is a needle (49) which has a second sealing surface (51).

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 5-9 and 11 are allowed.

Claim 4 is objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Pletcher, Phillips, II and Perry disclose ejector pumps with an adjustable discharge. Merritt et al discloses a fuel cell system with an ejector pump.
